W. C. PARKER PERMITS HIS THOUGHTS TO REVEAL AMONG FRIENDLY MEMORIES.

Gaffney, S. C., April 23, 1932.
Mr. D. B. Turner,
Statesboro, Ga.

Dear Turner:
Bulloch Times to hand and as usual read with interest. Your retrospective view of thirty-nine years ago, April 21st, 1893, brought many memories back to my mind. That also was the day I landed in Statesboro, coming from Baxley, to make my home in Statesboro. With me was my wife and three children, Kate, Homer and Agnes. Dr. J. S. Dusenbury and wife, also Miss Tan Mayo, his wife's sister, came on the same train, moving there, with us. I wrote Dr. Dusenbury this week, calling his attention to these things. We will meet again some day, I hope.

COUNTY AGENT

In the rush of farm work let's not forget our gardens. It is more important than it has ever been that every farmer have a year round garden. It is indeed a poor farmer who does not have a good spring and summer garden. We should have an abundance of vegetables from May until August. Landlords should furnish tenants land for vegetables and require that they cultivate their gardens. Then, let's not forget to can the surplus this summer. Every farmer should be able to get vegetables and fruit to carry them through the winter. I know very little about canning, but I can get information for anybody interested on the latest methods of canning. I am planning on having an expert on canning to give one or two demonstrations in the county in June. Will let the time be known.

When hogs go down in price as they are now our farmers are inclined to reduce the number of hogs on the farm. They also neglect the pigs to a great extent. This is a great mistake. While it is very discouraging now, with prices of pork the lowest in 35 years, prices are bound to come back. How soon we don't know, but prices cannot stay at the present level. Farmers by all means should raise as many hogs as they can produce feed for. And because hogs are cheap is no reason why they should not have every attention they get when the price is better. Live have been very bad all winter and this spring. Lice and worms probably more than anything else. Pigs should be groomed regularly. Then the hogs should have a mineral mixture before them all the time. The following mixture is recommended: Wood ashes or charcoal, 1½ bushels; common salt, 3 pounds; slacked lime, 5 pounds; sulphur, 2½ pounds; copra, 2½ pounds.

Pigs should be vaccinated against cholera as soon as they are weaned. They have longer protection, and it is cheaper to treat them when small. Serum is cheaper than it has ever been, and pigs can be vaccinated at a very reasonable price. Even if a farmer has to sell part of his pigs to treat the balance it will pay him.

Let's not get discouraged enough during these low prices to cut down on our hog production, but keep it up to normal.

E. P. JOSEY, County Agent.

Special Services At

Presbyterian Church

A series of special services will be held during next week at several places and varying hours as follows:

There will be five evening services at the Presbyterian church, Monday through Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Teachers College, chapel hour.

Two special services will be held in the vacant Trappell-Mikell store building, at 12 noon to 12:20 on Tuesday and Friday; just 20 minutes so all may attend during the lunch hour.

A morning consecration service will be held at the church on Friday at 10 o'clock.

The Wednesday evening meeting will be a community meeting at which Rev. J. D. Peebles will preach in the necessary absence of Dr. Glasgow, and the Methodist and Baptist congregations are invited and have officially agreed to cooperate this evening.

How is the schedule time and place:

Monday, 8 p. m., Presbyterian church (Glasgow).

Tuesday, 10:30 a. m., Teachers College; 12 noon, store room; 8 p. m., Presbyterian church (Glasgow).

Wednesday, 8 p. m., Presbyterian church, community service (Peebles).

Thursday 8 p. m., Presbyterian church (Glasgow).

Friday, 10:30 a. m., Presbyterian church (Glasgow); 12 noon, store room; 8 p. m., Presbyterian church (Glasgow).

Because of unavoidable hindrances Dr. Glasgow could not be secured at another date, hence the short notice and also the use of this date so near to the commencement season. It is confidently expected that everyone will make the necessary effort to attend these services and overcome difficulties and other attractions to do so.

Dr. Glasgow is one of the strong men of the Southern Presbyterian church. He has recently come to Savannah as pastor of the Independent Presbyterian church of that city. Our people will hear him with gladness.

A. E. SPENCER, Pastor.

and I find it a good place in which to live.

But my heart goes back to Statesboro and my friends there. Perhaps I might see you all again before many months shall wax and wane. Best wishes for your success and happiness.

Sincerely yours,

W. C. PARKER.

Christian Nations

Strive for Peace

Since the World War there has been a great deal of discussion concerning peace or the prevention of war. War leaves its ugly scar on the nation's social, political and economic fabric, and inflicts untold physical and mental anguish upon the peoples of warring nations. So it is well that the Christian and civilized world should not exert every honest method to establish peace on earth.

Moved with the specter of war returned there will remain, with many of us, a fear which will disturb our peace of mind. It depends upon the individuals what he or she fears. Some people have made recluses of themselves in the fear of dying from a particular contagious disease, some have become misers out of the fear of being committed to a pauper home in their old age, and others make themselves miserable out of the fear of some dire calamity happening to them or their loved ones. Most parents fear for the well-being of their children, their health, education and right living. Peace is individually and universally desired and yet we permit fear to rob us of our peace of mind when frequently the cause of the fear can be definitely removed from our minds.

For example, if your children have been educated to the best of your ability and their birth is registered, if you will have the comforting peace of knowing that they are equipped with an education and legal proof of their age, parentage and citizenship. A birth certificate properly filed protects your child's birth-right and brings you peace in knowing that anywhere, any time his identity and many legal rights can be established by a certified copy of the birth record. Do not deny your child the peace of knowing you did this for him.

MRS. J. B. BENNETT

Mrs. J. B. Bennett, aged 72, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. P. Lee, on April 19th, after an illness of a month. The deceased was the widow of the late J. B. Bennett, who was one of the leading farmers of the Brooklet community. She was a member of the Primitive Baptist church for forty-five years, and her consistent Christian life was truly exemplary of a true home-maker and a mother who followed the great Teacher, whom she professed to know.

Elders David C. Banks, of Statesboro, and J. H. Simms, of Leefield, conducted the funeral at Mt. Carmel church. Interment was in Lane's church cemetery.

T. F. LEE

Brooklet, Ga., April 23.—Probably the largest crowd in this section attended a funeral at Leefield was present this afternoon at the funeral of T. F. Lee, who died at his home Friday morning. Mr. Lee was a man of outstanding qualifications of honesty and uprightness. His life was truly exemplary of an ideal home-maker and leader of his fellow men. His death was a distinct loss not only to his immediate family and community, but to this county as a whole.

Rev. A. E. Fulmer, pastor of the Baptist church of which Mr. Lee was a devoted member, and Rev. Lon L. Day, of Brooklet Baptist church, conducted the funeral services. The active pallbearers were P. W. Clifton, D. B. Lester, Horace Hagan, C. S. Cronley, E. R. Grooms and J. O. Johnston. The honorary pallbearers were R. R. H. Hagan, J. H. Hagan, John DeHansen, Sam Groover, Howell Cone, Bill H. Simmons, J. A. Lanier, T. R. Bryan, Sr., N. L. Horne and J. E. McCroon. Interment was in the family cemetery at Leefield.

WHAT KILLS TOWNS

An article from a Minnesota newspaper published in this issue discloses that even in Minnesota there exists the problem of maintaining live towns.

The newspaper says that the great trouble is that people spend their money outside their town in an effort to save a few pennies, and that they in that way undermine the foundations of the community. And that is a self-evident truth known to everybody. Even towns that are not dead suffer from this malady, and the more money spent outside, the greater the financial ailment.

Every man engaged in any sort of business knows that the money he can not exist when people buy away from home. This lesson is the first one learned by any man who enters business. He learns the very day he opens his establishment that dollars must come his way or he will go out of business. And he knows that the important thing is that people spend their dollars with him in sufficient volume to insure his success. While this lesson is being so easily learned, there is a contemporary lesson that sometimes is never learned—and that lesson is the one of how to make dollars roll in. Words and appeals to patriotism reach a few, but the one convincing and lasting argument is the appeal directly to the purse. Few persons are willing to maintain local institutions at a personal expense which seems too great. Business has long been largely a matter of survival of the fittest. It will so remain as long as men seek the quickest way of earning dollars.

Statesboro still has the problem of home patronage as urgent as it ever existed, though there is less being said about it and nothing much is being done. Indeed, the matter of home loyalty is too frequently one-sided: The merchant who realizes that his business cannot survive without the support of every home dollar, forgets too readily that his neighbor's business is in the same boat. The merchant who argues against chain stores and mail orders, too often reserves for himself the right to buy from an out-of-town jobber because he can save a few pennies by doing so. He justifies himself in having government-printed envelopes, because they cost less than the private sale in another community because, forsooth, he saves a dollar or two; his wife buys her shoes in other cities because she gets herself fitted more to her liking; he gets his dental work done elsewhere because the other dentist charges less or is perhaps more expert; he gets his auto repaired elsewhere because somebody somewhere else is supposed to be more skilled; he buys his clothing from a traveling salesman because he imagines he gets a better fit; he buys four made from Indiana in preference for that made from Georgia wheat, and pockets the difference in profit; he buys bread baked in other towns and justifies himself with the thought that his patrons are entitled to eat what they want; he does lots of things which he does not want other people in his town to do. And the newspaper man buys newsprint from Finland because he saves $5 per ton on the price of American products; he buys ink in New York City instead of Atlanta because he saves 3 cents per pound; he buys paper in Jacksonville instead of Savannah when he believes he is saving 10 per cent; and thus it goes.

The thing that makes towns die is not that the people are at all unaware of the necessities of home-patronage, but that they want to apply the doctrine to others instead of themselves. Most people know better than that they perform—they know that dollars sent away from home impoverish the life-giving blood which is essential to commerce, but they demand for themselves the right to "cash" here and yonder. Walls cannot be built about a city that are too high to scale, but arguments can be offered which will keep trade at home. When we have learned to give the best service, then our trade problems will have been adjusted themselves.

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

One extremely important phase of the railroad problem—that of competition arising from new carriers which have been mainly developed since the war—is fundamentally as simple as the alphabet.

The problem is: If one common carrier is regulated by the federal government, through the Interstate Commerce Commission, why shouldn't the others be? If one form of transportation is taxed heavily by all forms of government, why shouldn't the others be taxed on the same basis?

Simple justice dictates that all important forms of transport, railroads, buses, trucks and waterways, be placed under an identical type of regulation. This would make for fair competition and the effects of that would be felt beneficially throughout the nation. Unfair competition has brought the railroads to the verge of ruin.

What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. And what is considered good for the railroads, should likewise be good for their competitors.

GEORGIA'S DEMOCRACY

The manner in which the State Democratic Executive committee handled matters this year is open to severe criticism. The committee made a rule that the successful candidate for president, in Georgia, was to name a committee of seven to name delegates to the state convention.

It was a forgone conclusion that Roosevelt would carry the state. Of course, Roosevelt left it to one or two men to name the seven birds who in turn would name the delegates from each county.

The selected few named the delegates, and what a mess they made of it. Republicans, Howard supporters, lukewarm Roosevelt supporters and whatnots were selected from the various counties to compose the great state convention.

Many salaried Democrats in Georgia are disgusted with such methods. A few self-imposed leaders got together and shaped things to suit them.

We will hear more of this in Georgia as the months progress. The "slick tails" in the cities have hogged the honors, but the rural communities are expected to roll up the amount—when election time comes around—Granahero Herald-Journal.

PAY HIGHEST TAX

PROPERTY TAX COMES SECOND. STATE AUDITOR SHOWS; VALUATIONS SHOW DECREASE.

Atlanta, April 24.—Decrease in property valuations on the digest for state taxation of $35,071,013 in 1931 below 1930 is shown in the audit of the office of Comptroller General William B. Harrison, submitted to Governor Russell today by State Auditor Tom Wisdom.

This decrease, the auditor said, represented reduced tax charges on digests of $178,365.07 in 1931 compared with the preceding year. A reduction in revenue of $521,105.42 collected through the office of the comptroller general and of $574,902.03 less in treasury imbursements in the year 1931 was also shown.

The comptroller general and the collectors under his account control, collected $22,185,227.76, or two-thirds of the total of the state in 1931 which was $31,776,835.43.

Included in this sum was $8,361,494.60 of the general fund which was more than three-fourths of the general fund receipts of $10,824,558.24 for the year.

Revenues collected through Mr. Harrison's office last year were divided as follows: Taxes $22,801,617.79; licenses and fees $101,303.50, and assessments $81,344.35, totaling $22,984,265.64. At Statesboro, allowances and expenses of collection, the payment to the treasury totaled $22,135,227.76.

These figures compare with the 1930 revenues through this office of $23,505,379.06 and with treasury imbursements of $22,710,129.79, a decrease of $521,138.42 in revenues and $574,902.03 in treasury imbursements in 1931.

An increase in revenue accruals of $305,023.49 were shown in 1931. Gross accruals and cash balances due the treasury at the beginning of the year were $4,060,445.58 and at the end of 1931 were $4,358,467.02.

The comptroller general's office, including the expenses which were a charge against the motor carrier's mileage tax, was $141,402.52 for 1931, of which $69,735.11 was paid and reported by the treasury, leaving $71,667.41 transferred to the comptroller general and disbursed by him.

Fuel oil distributors paid the major portion of the revenue collected by the comptroller general last year, $13,547,949.04, as compared with $13,666,138.98 in 1930. This was the six cent increase in gasoline and the one cent on kerosene.

The general property tax was the second largest revenue producer with collections of $5,080,190.45 as against $5,330,388.72 the previous year. Public service companies paying $1,074,492.54 were the third highest contributors. The year of 1930 they paid $1,082,156.94. Insurance premiums tax brought in $801,158.98 in 1931 and $822,479.33 the year previous.

On January 1, 1932, the comptroller general's current balance sheet showed $24,077.22 as a maintenance fund plus. At this time there was listed among assets $26,164.97 as state appropriation unpaid. Advances were placed at $1,000 and a bank and cash balance was shown of $896.97, making a total in assets of $27,861.54. The only liability was listed in working sheets in December of $3,784.72. Inheritance tax collections in 1931 totaled $278,862.49 while the poll tax brought $390,108.13 as against $398,481.18 in 1930.

The audit goes into great detail concerning the payments of commissions to the various county tax collectors, the amount of taxes collected by each and as to the personal and traveling expenses of those employed by the comptroller general.

Employees of the mileage and public service tax division received $15,010.18 in payment for personal services and had $5,743.91 traveling expense; collectors of insurance agents and occupational taxes received $4,179.18 for personal services and had no travel expense; the fire marshal received $4,448.75, as personal services and $5,712.28 for travel; fire inspectors were paid $14,561.07 for personal services and $12,595.31 travel expenses. Personal expense total cost was $40,199.69 and travel expense $24,052.

When Thomas Francis, of Norbury, Eng., was arrested for begging he had five razors and four bottles of beer.

When Bruce McQuillen, of Philadelphia, leaped in midair from a steamer his cork leg kept him afloat until he was rescued.

Frau Annie Meinerzhagen, of Berlin, died probably in her will that her husband should forfeit her $600,000 estate if he took a second wife.

emorr's staunch supporters in the house during the 1931 legislative session and a co-author of the reorganization bill, is definitely in the race. He has already paid his entrance fee and has announced that if elected he will continue the present administration plans of governmental economy.

Dr. John R. Lewis, of Louisville, a second cousin of Governor Russell has also announced that he would be a candidate, but has not qualified by the payment of his entrance fee.

Edgar Dunlap, of Gainesville, a prominent legislator is also being mentioned in many quarters as a gubernatorial possibility.

Capitol political observers today hope to circulate the possibility of John N. Holder, former chairman of the highway board, being a candidate in a large field. It was also considered probable that Ed Rivers, of Lakeland, in the 1930 race for governor, might enter again.

WOMEN OF GEORGIA

NOT HOME-MAKERS

MORE THAN ONE-HALF OF THE FAMILIES OF STATE HAVE NO CHILDREN UNDER 10 YEARS.

Washington, April 26.—Twenty-four per cent of the women of Georgia who are home-makers in that they are responsible for the care of the home and the family, also had gainful occupations outside their home when the last census was taken April 1, 1930, according to data made public Wednesday by the Census Bureau.

More than half of the families of the state had no children under 10 years of age, census figures also show. Of the 652,703 families in Georgia, 42,710, or 6.5 per cent, comprised one person only; 133,845, or 20.5 per cent, comprised two persons; 123,468, or 18.9 per cent, three persons; 105,745, or 16.2 per cent, four persons; 10,075, or 1.5 per cent, five or more persons. Of the families, 41,427, or 6.3 per cent, seven persons, and 66,054, or 10.1 per cent, eight persons or more.

The medium size of family for the state as a whole was 3.76; for the native white families, 3.56; for the foreign-born white families, 3.51; and for the negro families, 3.34. The medium size of urban families was 3.25; of rural farm families, 4.42, and of rural non-farm families, 3.43.

Of the whole number of families in the state 338,239, or 51 per cent, reported no children under 10 years of age; 154,409, or 23.4 per cent, had one child under 10; 88,908, or 13.6 per cent, had two children under 10; and 97,243, or 14.9 per cent, had three or more.

A considerable majority of the families in the state, 368,758, or 56.5 per cent, report only one member having a gainful occupation; 160,801, or 24.6 per cent, report two gainful workers; 100,116, or 15.3 per cent, report three or more gainful workers, and for 3.5 per cent no gainful workers were returned, these being for the most part the families of widows or of elderly persons.

Families reporting lodgers numbered 57,694, or 8.8 per cent of all families. Of these 37,578 reported only one lodger; 11,692 reported two lodgers, and 8,524 reported three or more. Of the households in which there were more than ten lodgers were counted as boarding or lodging houses and excluded from this tabulation of private families.

Of the families in Georgia 628,644 reported one home-maker. Of these, 151,121, or 24 per cent, returned a gainful occupation pursued in addition to their home-making activities. The gainfully employed home-makers included 56,191 who carried on gainful occupations at home, and 95,987 who were employed away from home. The latter number included 1,697 professional workers, 6,106 office workers, 18,399 industrial workers, 41,754 servants, waitresses, etc., and 3,686 saleswomen.

Of the native white home-makers, 12.1 per cent were gainfully employed; of the foreign born white, 11.4 per cent, and of the negro, 44.1 per cent.

The classification of the families by age of head which is now available is limited to those families having a man as head, of which there were 554,397 in Georgia. Of these, 50,886, or 9.2 per cent, reported the head as under 25 years of age; 130,909, or 23.6 per cent, as 25 to 34; 135,121, or 24.4 per cent, as 35 to 44; 120,202, or 21.7 per cent, as 45 to 54; 73,425, or 13.2 per cent, as 55 to 64, and 43,361, or 7.8 per cent, as 65 years old and over.

Small Towns Don't Die.

They Commit Suicide!

Towns do not die, they commit suicide, said a newspaper recently. And it is true.

If everybody who makes his money in this community would spend his money in this community the home town would double in population in a few years and everybody in it around it would be prosperous. Why are filling stations out of proportion to every other line of business in number? Because people buy all their gas and oil at home.

It is really inexplicable, why people will persist in spending money out of town needlessly, when the results of this practice are so costly. We know of one individual in the city now out of a job. This particular individual rarely spent a cent in Eaton Rapids, even when he could have saved money. Some two or three years ago this person was informed that if he practiced of spending money out of the city continued, he would work himself out of a job entirely. And that is just what has happened. How can the business man, or any one else, hire employees if they have nothing for them to do, or any money to pay them? When you spend a dollar out side you take it right out of the pockets of some local citizen.

And speaking of the "penny wise and pound foolish" policy, this is it. Save a few cents by spending your money in some other city, and then in the course of time find your husband out of a job because business conditions here will not warrant his remaining in some one's employ.

The light is on in all smaller cities. This does not only apply to Eaton Rapids. It is becoming a very serious question, and one that must be reckoned with in the near future. Just as mentioned above—the small city is not dying, it is committing suicide inch by inch. Instead of casting this idea off like so many snow flakes, it is time, and right now when every individual should give the matter serious thought. Otherwise there'll be more vacant stores in the city than we regret to report today.—Eaton Rapids (Minn.) Journal.
